Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If the period for reply specified above is less than thirty (30) days, a reply within the statutory minimum of thirty (30) days will be considered timely.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

DETAILED ACTION

Information Disclosure Statement

1. The Examiner considered the Information Disclosure Statement (IDS) submitted on June 17, 2004 and June 18, 2004.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 1-15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over the publication from the website, www.bingomania.net, which was published May 2000 and printed from <http://web.archive.org/web/19990421101542/http://www.bingomania.net/> (hereafter "BingoMania") in view of Soltesz et al. (U.S. Patent No. 5,830,069).

BingoMania discloses a gaming system and method for conducting bingo-type games over the Internet. Players register for an account at BingoMania and log into their account to begin play. BingoMania allows registered players to play 3 to 100 bingo cards at one time using automatic daubing (via auto-daub) or manual daubing (via player input) to indicate which called numbers match numbers on each bingo card. BingoMania, however, does not explicitly teach the specific hardware capable of implementing the bingo-type gaming system. In a related network bingo-type game, Soltesz et al. teach specific hardware capable of implementing the bingo-type gaming system taught by BingoMania. Specifically, Soltesz et al. teach a back office system (central site 10) including a data storage device (computer 1) for storing a number of bingo card representations and for storing a designation set for matching to at least one of the bingo card representations (called numbers from the bingo machine 16). Player stations (computers 5) include respective displays (screen 12) having a user interface device (screen 12 including touch screen capability as described in col. 3, lines 63-64). The player stations (computers 5) communicate with the back office system (central site 10) for receiving a result associated with at least one of the player bingo card representation. It would have been obvious for one skilled in the art at the time of the invention to incorporate the specific hardware as taught by Soltesz et al. to implement the bingo-type gaming system taught by BingoMania in order to offer players at multiple locations bingo-type games over network as desirably taught by Soltesz et al. (col. 1, lines 54-67).

Regarding claims 3, 4, 8, 9, 13 and 14, Soltesz et al. disclose a user interface device (screen 12) including touch screen capability (col. 3, lines 63-64) for announcement of bingo by a player pressing a bingo virtual button on the screen 12. It would have been an obvious matter of design choice to implement the manual daubing of BingoMania using touch screen display 12 of Soltesz et al. since Applicant has not disclosed that manual daubing via a touch screen display solves any stated problem or is for any particular purpose and it appears that the bingo-type game of BingoMania would perform equally well with manual daubing effected with a touch screen or another well-known input device (such as a mouse, a keyboard or a stylus).

Conclusion

4. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure and is listed on the attached Notice of References Cited (PTO-892).
